Dr. Ernest C. Levister, Jr. is one of the 100 or more outstanding graduates of historically Black colleges and universities (HBCUs) being honored as Distinguished Alumni at the National Association for Equal Opportunity (NAFEO's) in Higher Education's 20th National Conference on Blacks in Higher Education, March 15-19, 1995, at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington, DC. The Conference is sponsored by the NAFEO.

Lincoln University located in Pennsylvania, nominated Dr. Levister for this honor. He is in private practice in Internal & Occupational Medicine in San Bernardino, CA. A native of New York City, NY, he received his A.B. degree in Chemistry from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania in 1958. He received from Lafayette College in 1958 the B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering; He also received from Howard University the M.D. degree in 1964. He was previously a Medical Attache at the Embassy of the United States of America. He has received numerous honors including the Media Award from the Association of Black Women Entrepreneurs in 1995.

All honorees are nominated by their alumni institutions for making significant contributions to the American society. Presentation of the NAFEO citation shows that historically Black colleges and universities continue to produce many high-quality individuals who enter into the American mainstream and contribute to outstanding progress, said Dr. Samuel L. Myers, NAFEO President.

"Traditionally Black colleges have fostered the integration of our students into our society, where unfortunately Blacks account for only one to two percent of most professionals in the nation, by graduating approximately half of the Black lawyers, doctors, ministers and others," Myers stated in announcing the 1995 honorees.

The HBCU alumni will be introduced and feted at a special conference session and honored at NAFEO's closing Leadership Awards Banquet, Saturday, March 18th. NAFEO is an association of the nation's historically and predominantly Black institutions of higher learning, including public and private, two-year and four-year, undergraduate and graduate schools.

Affirmative Action: Who Benefits?

White males are 33% of the population but, 80% of the U.S. House of Representatives...

BY WILLIAM REED

With the American economy at its highest peak in years, African-Americans who haven't made sufficient inroads in jobs and career upward mobility during the last 30 years may be in deep trouble. To many, if not most, among U.S. legislators, the concept of affirmative action may be an idea whose time has come and is now gone.

But, defenders of affirmative action continue to talk about its moral justification, symbolic importance and political necessity. Rev. Jesse Jackson, who has formed a coalition of Blacks, women and others, says, "Affirmative action is under attack. The Republicans want to rip it. Instead of identifying the nation's real problems and finding solutions, many are perpetrating falsehoods and spreading myths blaming the weakest in our society for the excesses of the few. The new Republican congressional majority is using affirmative action to divide our nation for political gain." The president of Blacks in Government (BIG), Oscar Eason, said the critics of affirmative action contend that it is no longer necessary, that it discriminates against White males, and that it denigrates the very people it is designed to help. Eason says, "Segregation against minorities and women is still very much alive and doing well in America. While recognizing that affirmative action has not and will not solve all the problems of racial discrimination in hiring, training, and promotions, it is one tool that we cannot afford to lose at this time."

Even many in big business have jumped into the fray for affirmative action and against government legislators. Nation's Bank Chairman/CEO Hugh McColl has entered the debate as a defender and practitioner of affirmative action.

McColl believes that as the private sector seeks to go further than the original goals of affirmative action, government appears to be abandoning the program's original terms. He says that there has been a tendency for affirmative action to be transformed from a useful business principle and shared objective, to a regulatory requirement. "I am bothered by recent ideological attacks against the purposes of affirmative action. Its opponents claim that it has fulfilled its mission and should be abandoned. I disagree. We all want to reach Martin Luther King's ideal of a society whose members are judged solely by 'the content of their character' and not 'the color of their skin.' And we are closer to that ideal today than ever before. But deep-seated inequities remain — and will not correct themselves," says McColl, who is a born and bred Southerner.

Even among African-Americans questions abound about the results of affirmative action. While some Blacks have moved into the middle-class income level, fully 30 percent are still below the poverty rate. Many of the Blacks who enjoyed the benefits of 30 years of affirmative action have moved to the suburbs and their children are enjoying the fruits of affirmative action, having left poverty-stricken inner-city Blacks with little hope of better opportunities, with or without such programs. Also, Black women, who represent two strokes on the affirmative action ledger, one for being Black and the other for being female, have gained significantly more in the employment picture than Black males. And, the biggest winner of all from affirmative action has been White women, who have moved up the corporate ladder and acquired more government-let contracts than Black males or females.

Affirmative action advocates have to overcome significant opposition. Among those who are jockeying for the 1996 presidential primaries, affirmative action is a potentially divisive issue. It is being viewed in most segments of American society as part of the intrusive and continuously inefficient big government. Republicans Robert Dole, Phil Gramm and Lamar Alexander have all stated that it is time to end the policy of racial preferences and affirmative action, with Dole calling for "A color-blind society." Gramm said that as president he would "Overturn quotas, preferences and set-asides," while Alexander said, "Equal opportunity in this country does not mean treating people as groups." These three, and even President Clinton, who says that affirmative action "should be reviewed," are attempting to court the throng of "angry White males" who changed the country's Congress last November.

But, Rev. Jackson points out that much of what is being bantered around about the effects of affirmative action against White males is myth. He says that: White males are 33 percent of the population but, 80 percent of the U.S. House of Representatives, 92 percent of members of the Forbes 400 richest people in America and 80 percent of the tenured professors in the country. His data shows that there is hardly "widespread discrimination" as a result of affirmative action. After all the talk from the proponents (who've all done well from the program), and opponents (who are mostly career politicians playing it safe), the bottom line for the man still standing on the corners of Black America "has affirmative action as we know it today work fairly for them?" Or a better question for all readers to ponder is, "Has affirmative action worked for, or against you?"

Blind Woman Jailed; Accused Of Phone Terror

As we were going to press with the following story Pat Ramdhan called to say she had been arrested by the City of Industry Police for allegedly making terrorist phone calls to her niece Tracy McDuffy, one of the people involved in the ongoing family feud, that has been reported in Black Voice News. The story involves Ramdhan's struggle to regain custody of three of her children, who were originally taken from her by her sister, Sherry Wright.

McDuffy alleges that Ramdhan made threatening calls to her phone, however Ramdhan denies the allegations and has proof that she has received threatening telephone messages.

It seems each time Ramdhan gets ready to go to court to have her children returned something happens and she winds up in jail. There was a restraining order against her seeing her children. Any court ordered visits have not been carried out and she has not seen her children for nearly a year.

Last time she was arrested when her own child was found in her presence. This time Ramdhan says it is for retaliation. Her son Alphey reported to his school that he could not breathe in McDuffy's house because of marijuana smoke. "We were punished because of the report, I ended up in jail and I don't know what has happened to my son," said Ramdhan from her jail cell.

Sister of Patricia Ramdhan Speaks Out

The family for Whitney Houston's Glamour Girls are speaking out because of the court's taking of the mother's children without a hearing and because of the and Judge's refusal to return the minor Patricia Ramdhan and her children, Vanitey, Mistey, Alphey.

Ramdhan children to their mother, the family has reached their limit. The controversy has reached the President of the United States and his office has forwarded it to the Administration For Children and Families for review and any appropriate action.

The following is a letter from Mrs. Arletta Wright-Young, sister of both Ramdhan and Sherry Wright.

Please allow me the opportunity to tell both sides of the story.

I just want the truth to come out about my sister Sherry Wright's unjust and unfair action to earn money from Whitney Houston by using her sister, Patricia Ramdhan's two daughters, Mistey 10, and Vanitey 9. I want the world to know about this injustice.

My whole family - sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, are all fed up with the unfair treatment my sister, Patricia, is receiving. We are all fed up with the favoritism shown by the Los Angeles Department of Children Services towards Sherry Wright due to the fact she is a friend of the celebrity Whitney Houston and she has a contract with Whitney Houston for my nieces until they are thirteen years old.

The Los Angeles Department of Children Services has a restraining order against the mother, Patricia Ramdhan, because my sister Sherry Wright is claiming harassment. Patricia does not have knowledge of Sherry's address or home telephone number.

I was very close to my sister Sherry only to obtain information up until my niece's Vanitey and Mistey Ramdhan went to South Africa with Whitney Houston November 1994 without their mother, Patricia's knowledge. All the family members can tell you Patricia did not know her children were in South Africa until the program aired on HBO in November 1994.

State-Wide Panel To Participate In Affirmative Action Symposium

Without a doubt, the hottest issue to be debated over the next few months will be the proposed California Civil Rights Initiative. As you may know, the plan calls for the initiative to be placed on the General Election Ballot in 1996.

In order that the community have a chance to learn more about this most important matter, a number of community groups, including the Urban League, have arranged for a symposium which will bring together a group of experts to discuss the positive and negative aspects of this proposed legislation had hopefully to develop a plan of action.

The event is scheduled to take place at the Banquet & Conference Room, on the National Orange Show Grounds, San Bernardino, on Thursday, March 16, 1995, beginning at 10:00 a.m. There will be a registration fee to cover costs, which includes a continental breakfast and luncheon.

Further information regarding registration or other questions regarding this event may be obtained from Ms. Francis Grice at (909) 383-3609.

Fashions For The Urban Contemporary Woman

Anthony Mark Hankins, a 26 year old African-American fashion designer will be at the Galleria at Tyler in Riverside on March 11 from 2-6 p.m. presenting his ready-to-wear fashions for the urban contemporary woman.

Holistic Medicine Man Can Clean Up Your Act

BY CHERYL BROWN-BVN
"Radiation is destroying our food supply and poisoning our bodies," declared Dr. Nathan Rabb, Holistic Medicine Man who is fast changing the eating habits of people in Southern California. His clients are singing his praises.

Mrs. Geraldine Johnson said "I had Bell's Palsy, a condition that twists the mouth. The doctors were medicating me, and I wasn't improving, I was feeling worse. Then I came to Dr. Rabb. He began a colon cleansing program and I started feeling better, that was 60 lbs. ago. Now I don't eat meat, I don't eat food that is destructive to my body." Johnson receives an electric treatment that makes her whole body feel better.

This writer and friend Thula Shangase, who began the colon cleansing a month ago and we agree, there is a difference in the way we feel. "I don't take as much insulin says," Shangase, who is a nurse. And this writer has lost 10 lbs. Weight loss is only a side benefit. There is a program for weight loss after the one month colon cleansing program.

Rabb warns, if we eat properly, clean our colons, we can be healthy. He asks, "If you live until the age of 80, would you rather be healthy or would you want cancer and sickness to plague you for the final years. And the answer the medical world has is drugs. Drugs don't make you well and the side effects are dangerous.

"Most people are mineral deficient. The body must be balanced," he said. To do that a combination of herbs, teas, charcoal, and other herbal based products clean out the colon in one to three months. The process is repeated one month on and one month off or 90 days straight. The result is removal of mucus that carries many germs and diseases, and a washing away from toxins, which after many years of eating meat causes sickness.

No white sugar, (honey is the substitute) no white flour, no fried foods, only 20% cooked foods is recommended for the program. That's limited to baked potatoes, brown rice, whole wheat and spinach pastas, and beans.

Dr. Rabb cites radiation and chlorine in water and foods as other culprits. "Radiation of food increases shelf life and is used in crop growth. Chlorine is a toxin. Chlorine kills bacteria and destroys the body. Vegetables need to be organically grown (without pesticides). Radiation heat is another problem. All of the enzymes are killed in the microwave ovens. People are eating but the food is dead and lacks nutrients," he said.

Disease, unless it is hereditary, comes from a breakdown of the immune system. Most can be traced back to diet. Meat and inorganically grown vegetables are a nutrition nightmare. The hormones used to grow meat faster and leaner is ingested by humans, that affects every part of the body and especially large organs. Vegetables which are grown with pesticides and fast growth hormones are also not healthy, according to Rabb.

"Everyone should eat vegetables. Meat has five toxins, they don't go away. The toxins create bacteria and death begins in the colon," said Rabb. "We can correct most problems by the way we eat," he continued.

Diabetes, unless it is hereditary comes from too much processed food. It overworks the pancreas. The bran must have a constant supply of glucose, but not too much. Since Thula has been on the program her need for insulin has decreased.

"Just say no to drugs" is his motto. He explains drugs mask the problem. The only one which had redeeming value was antibiotics because it kills bacteria when grandmothers used to give three drops of turpentine in a spoonful of sugar. "It killed worms," he said. We have gotten away from cleaning out our systems.

Dr. Rabb's cleaning system, cleans the walls of the colon. It detoxifies the body. After years of eating meat, the colon becomes clogged, the waste builds up inside and the toxins bleed through the colon walls. This poisons the system and creates life threatening illnesses. The system cleans out the colon and changes the way we eat. Even drug addicts have been helped by the detox program which includes an electrical machine. He says, "if a person has made up their mind to get off drugs they can get away from drugs."

Healthy African-American Babies Is Goal Of New Campaign

SACRAMENTO - In an effort to improve the health of African-American babies, the state of California is launching a series of health-related messages on radio and in newspapers targeted at pregnant women and teens. The release of the new "Focused Care" messages, which coincided with the state observance of African-American Infant Health Week, February 19-25, came amid growing efforts to reduce the high rate of African-American infant death.

"It is critical...that we join together statewide and focus on community efforts that provide essential support services to African-American women around the state," said First Lady Gayle Wilson. "Focused Care brings an important message of hope to African-Americans women and their families, knowing that they can make a difference in their baby's early development and future."

California's infant death rate for African-American has decreased from 19.2 deaths for every 1,000 live births in 1989, to 15.5 deaths in 1993, the most recent year for which statistics are available. The rate, however, remains more than twice the rate for Whites of 6.2 deaths, and the state's overall rate of 6.8 deaths.

Riverside County's average rate of infant death among African-Americans for the years 1991-1993 was 19.4 for every 1,000 live births (second highest in California). The county had an average percent of low birthweight (infants weighing under 5.5 lbs) of 12.7%. The Riverside County Black Infant Health Program is working hard to help resolve the issues that contribute to the County's high rate of infant death among African-Americans.

"An important component of our program is community outreach and education," said Wehnona Barnett, Black Infant Health Program coordinator. "We will continue to meet with local African-American community groups and leaders to increase their awareness of the disparity of the infant death rate between African-Americans and the general population. This in turn will further extend our message of early and continuous prenatal care among high-risk women in the county."

The Bride-her Special Mystique Fact & Fantasy

BY HOLLY MONEY COLLINS

*In the early days, a man seeking a wife simply captured her and dragged her away. He selected her, not for her beauty but, for her potential as a good worker and breeder of additional workers.

*In ancient days, silver coins were placed in the bride's shoe to appease Diana, the goddess of chastity and unmarried girls. The gift allowed the bride to lose her maidenhood and bear a child.

*Today, as in days of old, the flowers carried by the bride signify life, growth and fertility.

*Traditional wedding flowers have significant meanings. They include: lavender-devotion; orange blossom-bridal festivities; rose-unity; myrtle-fidelity; and honey-suckle bonds of love.

*The kiss has been a solemn part of the wedding ceremony since the days of the Roman Empire. It was the custom then for the bride and groom to kiss and join right hands, after which the woman receives the ring. The kiss was the legal bond.

*The diamond is considered a symbol of matrimonial happiness. It's said to endow the wearer with courage and to protect the bride from evil spirits.

*The diamond is also an emblem of innocence. Folklore has it that if a man holds a diamond over the head of his beloved while she sleeps, he will find out if she is faithful. Should she turn toward him she is true, if she turns away, she has been cheating.

I thought it would be interesting to share folklore bridal facts and fiction with you. Here are a few from different African cultures:

If the bride approaches the groom's family home and seeks entrance she's told, by any married woman therein, to go away until she has married a fine man of that household. She continues to try to enter and she is chidingly denied passage until her husband-to-be comes for her and announces his intentions.

The practice of "stealing brides" is still very prevalent. Groomsmen often have the task of carrying off the bride and delivering her to the groom the night before the wedding. If the family cannot recapture her, the couple are forced to marry.

In another rite the groom sits on his father's lap and then his mother's lap and bids them farewell and so does the bride.

Immune System

DEAR DR. LEVISTER: What is the immune system? R.P.

DEAR R.P.: The immune system can be described in military terms - the body's department of defense in command of cellular armies. It's the immune system's business to recognize "self" (the body's own cells) and "non-self" (an antigen - virus, fungus, bacterium or any other cell or piece of foreign tissue). To deal with these antigens invaders the system manufactures specialized cells to recognize infiltrators and eliminate them.

There are a variety of white blood cells which constitute an intelligence and communication network that helps organize the immune system. The initial barrier is the skin to include mucous membranes, which not only form a wall against intruders, but also alerts the white blood cells when the wall is breached by invading organisms, i.e. a wound. Other segments of the immune system reside in various organs and locals - the tonsils and adenoids, thymus in the neck, spleen, upper abdomen, lymph nodes, appendix, certain areas of the small intestines and bone marrow.

Our Bodies

By Dr. Ernest Levister, M.D.

There are specialized white blood cells. The T (thymus derived) lymphocytes, have various functions, among them switching on various aspects of immune responses and then equally important, switching it off. The B (bone marrow derived) lymphocyte manufactures antibodies. There are scavengers called phagocytes, most notably the macrophages, that eat up all sorts of debris and tissue in the blood stream and alerts certain T-cells to the presence of invaders. Mass cells, important in allergic reaction, release chemicals into the blood stream.

In addition, there are killer T-cells stimulated by helper T-cells that zero in on cells affected by antigens or turn against the body's own cell when, as in the case of cancer, they begin to grow abnormally.

The immune system possesses a memory. Once you develop an immunity it may last for many years which is the foundation for vaccinations.

The immune system is exposed to a weakened or dead antigen in order to stimulate its memory. This way of creating immunity has prevented millions of deaths from measles, polio, diphtheria, flu, smallpox, tetanus, yellow fever and many other diseases.

The immune system isn't perfect but it is very efficient and has many built-in fail safes, in theory we should really fall ill. For reasons not understood, harmful agents such as the AIDS virus baffle our body's defense mechanism. Sometimes the gate keeper and the immune system go crazy and cause the body to go into red alert. The immune system can mistake the body's own cells and tissue for non-self and attack them in diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and lupus.

In addition, the immune system will also reject and kill potentially life saving organs and tissue transplants unless some way can be found to circumvent the reaction, i.e. the use of cyclosporin. The immune system can be overwhelmed by the number and toxicity of virus, bacteria or other foreign cells.

Star Profile: On Air Personality Jesse Collins

BY RICKERBY HINDS-BVN ENTERTAINMENT

As host of the soon to be nationally syndicated Ruthless Radio Show, on 92.3 The BEAT, On Air Personality Jesse Collins has moved one step closer to his goal of "Hitting ages twelve to a hundred," in his career.

With his show set to go national at the end of March, Collins is quite a ways from his bold beginnings.

In nineteen eighty-eight Collins walked into a local radio station in his hometown of Washington D.C. and launched his career, "I really didn't know how hard it was to get in, which was probably good," Collins said, "I just walked in and said, I'm ready to start."

A "little radio show in his high school cafeteria," and the understanding that he wanted to do radio are the two contributing factors that have landed Collins at one of the top R&B radio stations in the second largest market in the country.

His awareness of what he wanted to do early in life has been one of the advantages for Collins, "You gotta know what you want," He said, "Then once you know what it is, find out how to achieve it, then don't worry about anything else, just focus on that."

Boldness, a little luck and perseverance have also aided Collins in his endeavors. Speaking to youngsters at area schools and encouraging them to pursue their dreams comes naturally to Collins. He tries, through his many visits, to present himself as an example of what can be accomplished through hard work and determination. However, he does realize that there are obstacles to all goals, "My whole thing is reality," He said, "The reality of life and how hard it is."

The conversation of course, eventually turned to the music industry, specifically Rap. The subject of the apparent excessive number of remakes, or old tracks presently on the charts came up.

Artists such as Mary J. Blige and The Notorious B.I.G. are two notables who are presently enjoying remade hits. "It's got a lot of positives and negatives," Collins said, "One thing that it does, it expands the audience."

Another positive is also the ability of "Old School" artists to make a living from their music once again. One example is the Isley Brothers who "weren't making any money a couple years ago, now they're back," Collins said, "My mother listens to Ice Cube now because of them (Isley Brothers)."

One of the drawbacks, however would seem to be the lack of the cutting edge creativity for which Rap has been known from its beginning.

Much of this change can be attributed to the record companies. Many of whom are saying to Rap artists, if you don't sell, you're dropped.

Therefore, lyrically skilled artists such as Redman, Method Man and Busta Rhyme widely respected among their peers, but do not have the mass appeal and are left out.

Collins believes that a happy medium can be reached. "The trick is to not get too deep to where your peers think it's dope, but nobody gets it."

He would like to eventually pursue a second career in television. He hopes to one day do an "Arsenio-type" talk show.

While his career is on the move, Jesse has had to slow down. Collins has recently become a father. His six-month old daughter has helped him to focus even more, "It just changed my whole way of thinking," He said, "it happens just like that."

His warm personality, knowledge of his craft and love for music are a solid base for Collins, who combined with his focus, should secure Collins his desired listener and viewership.

Collins can be heard on 92.3 The Beat in the overnight slot beginning at 2:00 a.m., and on the Ruthless Radio Show Saturdays from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m.

God's Women "Fired Up" In Ontario

BY RUTH PEARSON

The Red Lion's Inn in Ontario will never be the same. On Saturday, February 25, 1995 it was the host location for the "Day Extraordinaire" of the God's Woman Conferences. This event attracted over 2,000 women of all races from as far as San Francisco, San Jose, San Diego, Los Angeles, North Carolina, and New York. All came with a singular purpose -- to hear the Word of God delivered from women who could speak and reach directly to their experiences.

They were not disappointed. Encouraging and challenging words were delivered by Helen Harris from Highland. Helen spoke on the topic of "Jesus Loves You", explaining how important it is to know the characteristics of Jesus' love and how He expresses it to us. Her use of several "curious", yet applicable, audiovisual aids caused a thundering in the room as women were challenged to grow up in their Christian experiences.

Denise Mitchell, from Las Vegas, NV rendered exhilarating music in her humorous manner than made the room rock and reel with her rendition of "He'll Make a Way". Her dynamic expression of rhythm and testimony brought chills and tears when she sang "Tomorrow". She was by no means an entertainer, but a real Minister of Music.

The services escalated in the afternoon session when Dr. Ramona Wood from Los Angeles spoke on "Getting to the Roots". The audience "oohed", "aahed", and "ouched" from the powerful penetrating words Dr. Wood spoke. Many acknowledged the need to forgive others and themselves of their past history and the need to get on with life during the altar appeal. Dr. Wood really provided a group therapy session for many who attended.

It was interesting to speak with several women from San Diego who expressed that several of them had come to three or more of the 17 conferences sponsored by God's Woman

Conferences, and they were trying to figure out a way to attend the September 27-30, 1995 conferences to be held at the Westin Hotel in Rancho Mirage, CA.

The GWC is chaired by Mrs. Charlyn M. Singleton who is the co-founder of this growing group of women, and the wife of Chuck Singleton, Pastor of Loveland.

If your woman's group is interested in becoming a part of this conference, or to order tapes of this conference, you may contact GWC offices at (909) 899-1207.

Temple To Honor "Golden Ager Of The Year"

All are invited on March 11th, at 12:00 p.m., to help the Temple Missionary Baptist Church honor Mother Strawder, their "Golden Ager of the Year." The Golden Agers (seniors) will be honoring Mother Alive Strawder for her dedication to the Lord, and others. Mother Strawder is the oldest active usher in the Temple Baptist Church family. Moreover, she attends church on a regular basis and participates in the majority of the church programs. She reflects the moral and Christian values that are definitely needed in today's society. That is why we can say, without hesitation, that Mother Strawder is truly a role model for both the young and elderly to emulate.

The program will be held at Temple Missionary Baptist Church, 1583 W. Union St. For more information, call (909) 824-0937.

Cathedral of Praise will hold its Consecration and Commitment Service on Tuesday, March 28, 1995, 7:00 p.m. at Bloomington Life Center, Corner of Cedar & 14th in the city of Bloomington.

After years of praising the Lord through song and various ministerial appointments, Reverend Craig W. Johnson has been led to organize a new church fellowship, "Cathedral of Praise".

Rev. Johnson began preaching at the young age of 13. He has served as Youth Minister and musician at a variety of churches, including St. John Missionary Baptist Church, New Hope Missionary Baptist Church and New Joy Missionary Baptist Church.

The Lord has led Rev. Johnson to organize a new church Cathedral of Praise. Rev. Johnson states "everything that I have experienced in life has prepared me for this challenging work." He believes that the Lord has called him into a ministry of reconciliation and his plans are to focus 100% on ministry, not programs. "My goal is to help Christians lead victorious lives based totally on God's Word."

Dr. Jester Hairston To Be Honored

Hal Williams

On Saturday, March 11, 1995, the Inland Empire will present, "Portrait of a Great Achiever", a gala celebration honoring Dr. Jester Hairston.

You may remember him as Deacon from the hit television show Amen, but did you know he also starred in the trailblazing sitcom Amos & Andy as well? Dr. Hairston has written several beloved gospel songs including "Dis 'Ol Hammer" and "Amen." Dr. Hairston's achievements span eight decades and we will take this opportunity to say thank you.

The "Portrait of a Great Achiever" gala will celebrate Dr. Hairston's life and honor his eight decades of uplifting. An intimate dinner with Dr. Hairston's family and close friends will convene at 6:00 p.m. and requires a $30 donation. Immediately following the dinner, well-wishers are invited to the free program showcasing the talents of Dr. Isaiah Jones, a Grammy nominee and singer of such songs as "God Has Smiled On Me," "Fill My Cup" and a host of others. Also scheduled to pay tribute to Dr. Hairston's achievements are renowned gospel groups "Higher Calling Ministries," "Another Peace" and the "Inland Empire Youth". In addition, Dr. Hairston will conduct five of his original works during the gala.

Master and mistress of ceremony will be Hal Williams formerly of "227" and Lotus Winstock a comedian recently seen on the HBO Comedy Hour".

Disneyland Does It Again!

By Paulette Brown-Hinds

Disneyland's latest adventure ride, The Indiana Jones Adventure, is set to open next week. It is the latest in a series of rides, which has put Disneyland once again at the top of the list for "thrill-seeking" amusement park-goers.

The ride, based on the movie by the same name, is nestled in "Frontierland" between Pirates of the Caribbean, The Swiss Family Tree-house, and The Jungle Ride. Although the "ride" itself takes the adventurer through the "temple" (a replica from the first "Indy" movie), the adventure begins once you step into line. The many winding pathways which all lead to the ride, take you deeper into a cavern lined with skulls, trap doors, and cobwebs. If you take the wrong path, or touch the wrong wall, you may find the ceiling literally start to come down on your head.

Once you're strapped into your jeep, and begin the adventure, you encounter squealing rats, invisible arrows, giant snakes, and runaway boulders.

There are three different rides in one, so you never know which road you will travel.

Disney has done it again! Hold on to your hats and glasses. The Indiana Jones Adventure is a guaranteed thrill for all!

Makes Me Wanna Holler

A Young Black Man In America

NATIONAL BESTSELLER

MAKES ME

HOLLER

AMERICA

Nathan McCall will be at Phenix books on March 19th

Whether viewed as a cry of rage about the horrors of racism or as a frightening look at the hopelessness of young Black men in America, Nathan McCall's landmark autobiography Makes Me Wanna Holler: A Young Black Man in America is a gripping narrative that will leave no reader - Black or White - unmoved. In the tradition of such modern classics of African-American experience as The Autobiography of Malcolm X and Manchild in the Promised Land, McCall's is the unforgettable story of a man who managed to overcome a legacy of violence to become a renowned and respected reporter and writer. Soon after its release in hardcover last year, Makes Me Wanna Holler: A Young Black Man in America catapulted onto the New York Times national bestseller list, and Nathan McCall instantly became the voice of a generation.

In Makes Me Wanna Holler, McCall looks back on his journey from troubled youth to professional journalist and shows us that the easy answers - poverty, terrible home life, lack of education - don't always apply. "The problem among us," he writes of his friends who ended up addicted, imprisoned, or dead, "are more complex than something we can throw jobs, recreation centers, social programs, or more policemen at." In recounting his story, McCall makes brilliantly clear how young Black men, feeling that they have no options in a society that devalues them, try to maintain self-respect by going against everything the "white system" stands for, adopting the pose of the outlaw and a code of macho violence.

Today, a political atmosphere where the poor are being blamed for the nation's problems, and police and jails are more popular than education and training as solutions for our social problems, Makes Me Wanna Holler: A Young Black Man in America message is even more important. Nathan McCall has emerged as a vital voice for young Black men fighting for their place in America and his book is also essential reading for White Americans who are puzzled and frightened by this seemingly irrational rage. McCall is now writing the screenplay for the film version of Makes Me Wanna Holler: A Young Black Man in America, which is currently being produced by award-winning director John Singleton (Boyz n the Hood) for Columbia Pictures.

Cullen, Ralph Ellison, Jackie Robinson, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King Jr., but the editors also include material from emerging creative writers and political thinkers. The powerful opening excerpt by Frederick Douglass evokes his boyhood as a slave, and the collection closes with an eloquent discussion of the race problem today by Cornel West. A distinguished addition to Black studies. Illustrations not seen by PC (Mar.)

A Brotherman: The Odyssey Of Black Men In America

This outstanding collection of writings by African-American males has been edited by Boyd (Down the Glory Road) and Allen (The Port Chicago Mutiny) with a commitment to inclusion and diversity. More than 100 pieces are organized by subjects such as forefathers, relationships, racism, sports, music and other themes that define the Black man's experience. Sister Souljah Speaks Out: No Disrespect

In this time of terrible crisis in our urban centers, when violence, poverty, and the breakdown of family are at an all-time high, one hears a lot of hand-wringing and posturing and empty political statements. Among the chorus of opinions, one voice stands out and challenges us to speak the truth about today's relationships between Blacks and Whites, and especially between African-American men and women. Sister Souljah, the activist and hip-hop artist who fought publicly with presidential candidate Bill Clinton, speaks out in a powerful, outspoken, and often angry memoir of growing up Black and female in America.

No Disrespect offers a raw and brutally honest portrait of life in the projects and on the streets. Souljah is as forthcoming about her mistakes as she is about her successes to show how young Black girls can grow up with their integrity intact in a very tough world. "By exposing my experiences and the experiences of many of the people around me," Souljah writes, "I hope and pray that many African men and women will gain an understanding of love and life, that they will have a chance to save themselves the pain of ignorance." As she traces her steps from a terrifying childhood in a Bronx housing project to college years at Rutgers University to life as a committed activist, she points to a path others might follow out of the ghetto into healthy, life-giving relationships.

Sister Souljah is first and foremost a teacher and activist. Her early experiences in the ghetto, where the destruction of the African-American family was all but complete, and her subsequent years in mostly-White New Casey schools, became the driving force behind her efforts to educate herself and her own people. College opened a whole new world for Souljah, whose courses in African-American studies began to explain the disturbing state of affairs in her community. Yet, Souljah's own personal relationships with family, friends, and lovers, perhaps taught her most of all.

Sister Souljah will be at Phenix books on March 25th

In No Disrespect, she describes coming of age sexually and intellectually through her encounters with seven unforgettable figures in her life: her mother, who teaches Souljah the importance of reading, education, and clean living; Nathan, Souljah's first love and a true teacher; Nikki, a beautiful Rutgers classmate who seems to have it all; Joseph and Derek, lovers who cannot break their attachments to other women; and Chance, the man she planned to marry. Always questioning, always struggling to stay true to herself, Souljah discovers the power of her intellect and her sexuality and learns to use both wisely.

Souljah writes candidly about painful issues that are not often discussed in the Black community, challenging her readers to confront the status of the African-American family and ask, "What is an African man?" "What is an African woman?" "What is a family?" Without answers to these and other important questions about sexuality, education, history, and empowerment, Souljah asks, how can young Black girls and boys grow up to become strong and responsible? In No Disrespect, she offers heartfelt yet strict guidance to those searching for answers.

"Remember," Souljah writes, "no one will save us but ourselves. Neither God nor White people will do so. But first we must learn to respect ourselves. That is the test we must pass, the promise we must make to each other, the challenge of all our lives." No Disrespect will deepen the public debate over issues of race, class and sex. It is an essential part of the dialogue that must take place between men and women of all persuasions.

Sisters And Lovers: From Paperback To Mini-Series

Three years ago Connie Briscoe was employed at Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C. as managing editor of American Annals of the Deaf. She was toiling hard at her day job while simultaneously working on a novel about three African-American sisters. Practically overnight Connie Briscoe's 9 to 5 life was turned upside down by the publication of her enormously successful first novel, Sisters & Lovers.

Published last year in hardcover, Sisters & Lovers went back to print over 11 times bringing the total in print to over 107,400 copies. The novel was #1 on Essence's Blackboard bestseller list, appeared on the Chicago Tribune and San Francisco Chronicle best-seller lists, and held steadily on the Ingram and Barnes & Noble wholesaler lists. In addition, the book is scheduled to be a CBS mini-series. Now, Briscoe's novel Sisters & Lovers has been released in paperback.

Sisters & Lovers is a contemporary work which focuses on the relationship between three African-American sisters and the issue of trust among men and women. While the men in Sisters & Lovers may leave a lot to be desired, Briscoe denies any charges of malebashing, pointing out that she has some positive male characters as well. In an interview with The Washington Post, Briscoe said, "I think I'm being realistic. The fact that this issue comes up over and over again should indicate there's a problem out there. I don't think all Black men have problems, but some of them do."

Deaf most of her adult life, Connie Briscoe has succeeded in finding her own unique voice through writing fiction. With a two-book contract she has achieved her dream to become a full-time novelist. In an effort to bring Connie's words to both the hearing and deaf communities, we will be sending her on the road with an interpreter.

Corey, Jamell & Dwight = Title; Hooks & North Close

Fontana Wins First Ever 1AA CIF Title, Beats Long Beach Poly 65-57.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

ANAHEIM - Fontana High, known as a football school around Southern California, can now add basketball to its sports repertoire.

What a difference a year makes. Last year was the year everyone expected the Steelers' to make a run at the California Interscholastic Federation 1-AA title. That team finished 26-2 and lost in the CIF quarterfinals. It also had one of the best players in the country, Travon Charmichael.

With Carmichael gone along with three other starters, this year's squad was expected to be a competitive one, but CIF champs?

Well, after dethroning last year's title winner the perennial basketball power Long Beach Poly, 65-57, at the Arrowhead Pond before 15,103, the Steelers (24-6) have beaten the odds and a sluggish early season start.

Led by emotionally charged senior Jamell Slaughter (game high 23 points) and hyperactive junior Corey Benjamin (20 points and 15 rebounds), Fontana won its first ever basketball title in the school's 40-year history.

"We just played hard and let the game come to us," said Benjamin. "Poly came out wanting to win just like we did, but we were a little more hyped than they were."

If you would have caught some of the Steelers' games in mid-season and at the Kiwanis Tournament, you probably wouldn't have expected them to do the unexpected. Although many didn't think the show-time Steelers had the right stuff to hoist the title, they never doubted themselves.

"I came here to win a title, me and my brother (Dwight)," said Jamell, "and that's what happened to us. It hasn't sunk in yet, but I'm sure it will when I get to sit down and think about it."

Added Coach Mike Southworth: "Those early season losses helped us put things in focus. We had to readjust and dig down and come together as a team. We lost some games in league and outside league that we probably never should have lost, but in the end it was probably a good thing we did."

The early losses were a direct result of a team that needed time to come together and learn its roles. With a new cast, fueled by the infusion of the Slaughter brothers, who came from Etiwanda, it took time to get on the same page.

"I new we were going to lose the whole starting team, but I know we have a good program that is real strong," interjected Benjamin. "I guess people can't write bad things about us now."

Don't worry Corey, it's all good!

The Steelers were very good against Poly, and despite their showtime reputation, Fontana implemented a workman-like performance against a determined and ready Long Beach Squad.

After Poly put together a two minute run that got the score within 49-47 with two minutes remaining, Benjamin halted the Jackrabbits' run with a three point play and followed it up with a put back that gave the Steelers a healthy 58-48 lead with under two minutes remaining. They never looked back.

Poly, after getting down 16-

8 at the end of the first period, played Fontana even the rest of the way on the strength of its three-point shooting. The Jackrabbits connected on 6 treys, while the Steelers made only one.

Still, the Steelers had treys Poly had no answer for. Dwight (17 points), Jamell and Corey, the Steelers' big three, scored all but five of their team's 65 points.

Although Fontana's scoring was done by the 'Big Three,' role players Darnell Green, Frank Noguera, Gysai Griffin and Fred Crawford provided the solid defense, picks, hustle, floor burns and rebounding, required of any championship team.

"Coach (Southworth) told us that Poly wouldn't roll over and play dead," said Jamell, "and they were a better team than the one we beat earlier in the year (76-46). We threw that game out and concentrated on this game."

Added Benjamin: "You don't get this far in the tournament and not be a good team. Poly has a lot of tradition and we knew we had to come correct to win it."

Summed up Dwight: "This is a great team experience. Also, playing with them (Corey and Jamell) is a pleasure. Sometimes I just want to sit back and watch them."

You are not along Dwight, so do I!

Riverside North Lets One Slip Away At End In CIF 2AA Title Game Loss, 60-58.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

ANAHEIM - In the 77th renewal of the California Interscholastic Federation boy's championships held at The Pond of Anaheim before 9,579, one constant was evident: Riverside North was a participant in the title game.

For the fifth consecutive year North weaved its way through the playoff field to end up in the CIF 2-AA title contest against Pasadena.

The unfortunate part is North lost for the second consecutive year and the fourth time in five tries - they won in '93 - at the big dance.

Still the undersized Huskies, in losing to Pasadena in overtime, 60-58, displayed the heart and grit of champions.

Top-seeded North (24-3) held a six point lead with four minutes remaining in regulation, but could not hold on.

"I can't fault the effort, but this is one team I feel could have sucked it up harder and got it done," said North Coach Mike Bartee. "In a two point game like this, there are so many things you could point to that could have made a difference."

One obvious set of circumstances came in the last two minutes of regulation. The Huskies became engulfed by a rash of costly turnovers - six in fact - that snatched a tie from the jaws of victory. North had two chances in the final 40 seconds to break the tie, but fate was having none of that on this day.

"I think we shouldn't have lost this game," said North guard Brian Hooks. "We built our whole season around this. It's disappointing to lose after making so many mistakes. I feel if we could have stayed away from all those mistakes, we..."

Just looking at the matchups from courtside it appears admirable that North was even able to make the game as close as it was at the conclusion. Consider Pasadena had two 6-foot-6 jumping jacks (Derrick Hodges 25 points and Gordon Scott 18), with Division 1 potential, plus 6-6 David Beebe to clog the middle and rebound. Add in the fact that North's toughest inside player, 6-4 Chris Claiborne, got into early foul trouble, then the seeds for trouble on the inside were planted.

Hooks in a gallant effort, scored 21 points, snatched 10 boards and had five steals. Ray Anderson (12) and Claiborne (8 and 9 rebounds) provide ample scoring support.

"I couldn't afford to get a mistake or play as aggressive as I wanted with the three fouls so early," said Claiborne. "They are a good team that was really aggressive inside. I think we still could have won if we didn't have the mental breakdowns that just killed us at the end."

It never feels good to lose in a championship game, especially if the game is one that could have went either way, but Bartee seems to have the right perspective. "A loss is a loss and it never feels good," he said, "but, in this business you can't make it personal or you will be on the edge."

Well, North was on the edge of a victory that just turned over. But, as time mends wounds, they will be able to be proud of their season and effort in the CIF 2-AA title chase.

S - is for "self-confidence"

SUCCESS

S - Sense of direction.

Know what you want and get the proper training to get it. If you have a to give something up to gain something worthwhile, DO IT!! A good education; family togetherness; to be closer to God - set a goal and keep your eyes on it.

U - Understanding your problem area. We all have problems. Use the experience to build a better life for you, your family and your fellow man.

C - Courage. Do not be afraid to take risks if the goal is worthwhile. There will be many obstacles, but they will only be effective if you take your eyes off your goal.

C - Charity. Charity begins at home. Never look down on another person who happens not to be as fortunate as you. Take care of home, for that is where charity begins. It seems that often the person we love or should love most is the last one to receive a kind word, a pat on the back or a hug. Let them know you care.

E - Esteem. Discover your good points and build on them. Low self-esteem is one of the biggest problems we face in the school system and society. If a person does not have respect for himself, he will find it difficult to love or respect anyone else.

S - Self-confidence. Approach the struggles of life as though you had already won the battle and I will bet that you overcome any major obstacle that gets in your way!

S - Self-acceptance. If I will not accept myself, I will find it difficult to be accepted in any worthwhile society.

We need each other. Professionals or non-professionals must not restrict their services to one race or people no matter what their occupation: doctor, clerk, teacher or salesman, and people should not accept "tacky" service. Our youth of all races should develop the type of respect that will remind them of the rights of other people and should insist that their rights be respected and that courtesy not be denied.

We must have faith that one day all people in the world will be respected because of their good works and not the color of their skin.

You see, faith is full of light and it enables us to see where we stand in relationship to ourselves, our neighbors and the loving God who gives life to all of us. All Americans must provide a model for our youth, a model that we can be proud of and, by this example, America can become a model for the world.

Together, we can!

There is favoritism towards my sister Sherry from the Los Angeles Department of Children Services because Sherry is a friend of the celebrity Whitney Houston. No matter what happens in Sherry's home illegally, the Los Angeles Department of Children Services will not do anything. Sherry's husband was arrested for cocaine possession and robbery in her home on January 15, 1995. The Los Angeles Department of Children Services didn't do anything.

Sherry has had six babies, all of which have died within two weeks of their birth. She just had a baby that died at Cedars Sinai Hospital in October 1994. Sherry is claiming Patricia is harassing her as a way of holding on to Patricia's two daughters longer. Sherry has told me personally that Patricia will never get her two daughters back - she will see to it.

Sherry told me in 1992, that she was going to apply for Guardianship of Stormey, Mistey and Vanitey. But I didn't not believe you could legally obtain Guardianship unless the mother was served or unless you put it in the newspaper. Patricia is legally blind, she can't see it even if it did appear in the newspaper. Well, I was wrong! Sherry advised me that she was not going to tell Patricia she was applying for the Guardianship. Sherry said Whitney Houston advised her that legally she did not want to work with her unless she was the legal guardian, because of possible legal problems later. Patricia would have hit the ceiling if she found out Sherry was applying for Guardianship of her two daughters. Patricia found out after the show aired on HBO that Sherry had Guardianship papers that's why Patricia called the police on Sherry. Patricia had no idea whatsoever that her two daughters were in South Africa, or were going to South Africa to do 18 concerts. All Patricia wants is her children back from Sherry.

I love both my sisters, Sherry and Patricia but, Sherry is dead wrong. She is unjust and unfair regarding her actions towards Patricia.

There is a list of relatives who support Patricia gaining custody of her children.

The Los Angeles Department of Children Services ignores any wrong doings on Sherry's part. A police report was made against Sherry for abusing my other niece Fajallah Harper age nine one of the members of the Whitney Houston Glamour Girls. The Los Angeles Department of Children Services has done nothing and this incident was reported to them.
